ASSOCIATION OF
COMMUNITY AND MULTIBED
ACUPUNCTURE CLINICS

Conference Round-up

"ACMAC conferences are truly unique - pure, cutting edge acupuncture theory and practice. The conference always attracts the most awesome bunch of people; innovative, caring and dynamic. Congrats to The Association of Community and Multibed Acupuncture Clinics (ACMAC) for another historic event"

We couldn't have put it any better ourselves - thanks Kath Berry!

This year's conference....

....came together beautifully - the speakers brought the issues facing treated in their clinic in Gujarat, India and we're delighted to have raised the wider acupuncture community and made them completely relevant to our community of multibed practitioners. We were joined by students, seasoned practitioners, practitioners setting multibed clinics for the first time, patients, carers or patients and of course a wealth of knowledge and expertise from the acupuncture world.

If you missed the conference and haven't heard her speak yet you have to check out what Mel Hopper-Koppelman has to say about evidence-based acupuncture. Google her, sign up to EBA-Connect, register with Acupuncture Professional ...just get yourself immersed in the amazing world of communicating acupuncture's effectiveness with science.

And once we'd all been super-charged with confidence in effectiveness of acupuncture Lara McCLure planted us firmly in the world of politics and how we are perfectly positioned to tackle health inequalities in this country. Making acupuncture accessible and affordable is a concrete way of reducing the ever-increasing health inequalities between rich and poor. And how amazing to be creating spaces where people from every walk of life can come together for a shared healing experience.

World Medicine brought a wonderful set of films showing people being £130 for them via our raffle. That money will buy the clinic's first electro-acupuncture kit - a worthy gift for an incredible project.

And once again Paul Blacker delivered a fantastically practical session - with his usual charm and exceptional experience shining through. He gave such a in-depth look at how to locate Ah Shi points - not just where patients feel pain but using our senses to feel and see exactly where they are.

Both Andy Mappleback and Peter Deadman generously gave their time to promote an intense sense of well-being through the practice of Qi Gong and Gong Meditation. This practice really showed us just how important the cultivation of our own energetic health is so important for our practice as acupuncturists.

And the party! Sadly we're a bit short on party photos so you'll have to take our word for it - suffice to say there was a lot of groovy dancing!

There wasn't a moment during the weekend that wasn't spent learning new things, sharing our experiences, supporting each other or just enjoying building our community. The weekend was dynamic and so very positive and is recommended to anyone interested in multibed acupuncture. Everyone is welcome and we can't wait to see you all again next year.

Discounted access for ACMAC members

ACMAC members can get discounted access to EBA-Connect. For just $49 (full price $79) you can access a wealth of training, videos and resources. Members can contact info@acmac.net for a discount code.

Yay we've got 700 likes!

Thanks to everyone who's liked and followed us on Facebook. Keep up the good work and make sure you log in to see all the amazing pictures from this year's conference. Visit HERE to show your support.

We don't do this enough...

so we just wanted to say a warm welcome to the clinics and supporters who have joined ACMAC this year. Hello to Mirijam Marx at Zen Zone in Reading, Alison Savory at One Acupuncture in Devon, Annette Lucas at 4 Good Health in Sheffield and acupuncture students Caroline Wansborough and Tessa Hodson.
